AWARD WINNING EDUCATOR TRADES IN THE CLASSROOM FOR THE CONFSSIONAL

“The last place I expected to find myself was in a confessional,” says Reiny Pierson, “but I just couldn’t help myself. I saw one in a renovator’s emporium and my imagination took flight.”

A retired 12th Grade Honors English teacher and winner of multiple awards for writing and teaching with technology, including the IBM Virginia Technology Teacher of the year award, Pierson took her love of writing and penned her first psychological thriller, The Confessional.

Always fascinated with mysteries and the mind of a sociopath, Pierson left the classroom far behind as she extensively researched the mind of a psychopath through research and attending lectures. In a fascinating interview, Pierson can discuss:

- How she moved from the classroom to the confessional
- Our free will in the eternal battle between good and evil
- How a murderer can commit crimes with no remorse
- Why people are fascinated with psychopathic behavior
- Are psychopaths a product of nature, nurture or both
- Transitioning from her role as educator to author

Reiny Pierson has her PH.D. in Educational Leadership/English Education from Old Dominion University in Virginia. She is an award winning educator who taught 12th Grade Honors English at First Colonial High School in Virginia Beach and was an adjunct associate professor at Old Dominion University. She is the recipient of numerous awards including the Virginia Technology Teacher of the Year award from IBM and Technology & Learning Magazine. She lives in Virginia Beach, VA and is working on a new historical novel about the Norwegian Resistance Movement during World War II, called Night and Fog, and a second psychological thriller, called These Hands.
